sted meeting of parties interested in the veral New England railroads, for the purpose of on of the freight and passenger tariffs, is the iniiatory step of an important movement, and must, or A least ought to, result in an advance of rates and an ovement of nanagement. Competiti n and an unue regard for public clamor, have reduced the standar to a point altogether too low. There must be retrograde movement, or very many railroads cease to perate. Why a passenger who is carried in one-fourth of the time required by other modes of conveyance should also demand to be charged only one-fourth the price, it is not easy to see. Surely he might afford to pay double. Yet it is the fact they even the low rates of two or three cents a mile, where a speed of 36 or 40 miles an hour is attained, have been ally regarded as too high. Railroads, auxious to set the public wishes, have weakly consented to put find it hard to retrace their steps. But, hard as it may be, it is necessary. No other is left, and all fair minded en will applaud the New England movement in thiseremilroad management. Stock bolders have left everything bere of their board. Thus a very few individuals have had it in their power to make immense fortunes, by extending the liabilities of companies, building new roads, contracting entanging alliances, speculatreal estate and stocks, and in multiferious opera sons for their own individual profit. There should be nies. Stockholders should inform themselves, and be counsited whenever any new movement involve is dene, and more perfect intelligence pervades the mass will suffer by the operation of the close corporation system. Railroad property will continue to sell for less that its real value, owing to the last that public confidence car mover be accorded to management so inherently victous.
